Website Build Specification

Build a minimal, editorial, fully responsive website for REMIXED TABLE—a nomadic studio where art, education, wellness, and everyday life are rearranged through gatherings, learning experiences, fieldwork, writing, and shared creative practice. The site should feel like an independent art school, a field journal, a contemporary gallery, a family studio, and a gathering place.

Its central job is to turn interest into participation: event reservations, workshop bookings, school and homeschool inquiries, free field-guide signups, paid newsletter subscriptions, digital-product sales, private tables, and creative collaborations.

Brand Foundation

ART, EDUCATION, AND EVERYDAY LIFE—REARRANGED.

REMIXED TABLE is for children, teens, families, educators, artists, and curious adults. It creates intelligent, beautiful, human-scale ways to make, notice, gather, and learn together.

The visual and verbal world should feel:

- Minimal, calm, tactile, and contemporary
- Editorial and intelligent, but never academic or cold
- Artistic and slightly mysterious, but always navigable
- Warm, thoughtful, and community-centered
- Elevated but not exclusive
- 80% gallery/editorial restraint; 20% play, warmth, and childlike curiosity

Avoid generic children's enrichment imagery, rainbow craft visuals, corporate education language, wellness clichés, and overly polished lifestyle-brand aesthetics.

Manifesto

A MANIFESTO FOR THE INNER CLASSROOM

Education is more than instruction.
It is a way of meeting the world.

REMIXED TABLE is a studio without walls: a place where art gives shape to feeling, wellness becomes a practice of attention, and children and adults are trusted to make meaning together.

We work with materials, stories, food, questions, movement, memory, and conversation. We leave room for the unfinished. A sketchbook can be a thinking tool. A shared meal can be a curriculum. An ordinary afternoon can become a site of discovery.

We are here for children with difficult questions; parents seeking more connection and less performance; educators who want to teach with imagination; and adults who still remember the relief of making something by hand.

Creativity is not an extra. It is a way of noticing, caring, and practicing agency in the present.

Come to the table.
Bring what you notice.

Method

ART, EDUCATION, AND WELLNESS—REMIXED AT THE SAME TABLE.

REMIXED TABLE uses simple systems to support creative lives and connected communities.

The method brings together art-making, story, reflection, food, attention, movement, conversation, and shared learning. Experiences should feel structured enough to hold people, but open enough for surprise, experimentation, and individual meaning-making.

Use five method pillars throughout the site:

Pillar	Short explanation
NOTICE	Slow down. Follow the strange detail.
MAKE	Think with the hands.
NOURISH	Treat bodies, food, rest, and attention as part of learning.

TELL	Use story to hold complexity.
SHARE	Knowledge becomes fuller when it moves between people.

Navigation

Use a sticky, minimal navigation bar. The simplified all-caps REMIXED TABLE wordmark should sit at the left; primary navigation should appear at the right. On mobile, use a simple menu icon that opens a full-screen menu with oversized, easy-to-tap links.

“Events” must remain highly visible in the main navigation because it is the primary booking and revenue pathway. Use a small tomato-red dot beside the label when an upcoming event has limited availability.

Design System

Use the existing burgundy illustrated-table logo on the homepage, About landing page, printed event materials, and larger brand moments. Use the simplified wordmark in the header, mobile menu, footer, and small-format placements.

Color Palette

Use	Color
Primary Burgundy / Oxblood	#520016 or #590018
Paper / Warm Cream	#F7F4EF
Secondary Paper / Blush Grey	#E9E1DA
Soft Charcoal	#1E1A1B
Tomato Accent	#E84B36
Optional Moss Accent	#66705B

Use burgundy for logo, headers, buttons, links, dividers, and important interaction points. Use tomato only for limited availability, “new” markers, subtle hover states, and small attention signals. Use moss only in food, ecology, outdoor, or fieldwork content.

Typography

- Headlines and taglines: Red Hat Text Bold

- Body copy, navigation, metadata, forms, captions, and explanations: Didactic Gothic
 - Navigation should be uppercase with slightly expanded tracking.
 - Keep headlines spacious and confident.
 - Use only these two typefaces.
 - Maintain excellent mobile readability with generous line height and comfortable text sizes.

Homepage

The homepage should introduce the REMIXED TABLE world quickly, create emotional resonance, and lead visitors toward booking, downloading, subscribing, shopping, or collaborating.

Hero

LEARNING IS A MATERIAL.

We draw with it, question it, share it, remake it.

Primary CTA: VIEW UPCOMING EVENTS

Secondary CTA: TAKE A FIELD GUIDE

Use generous cream space, the illustrated logo, and one carefully selected documentary image or image sequence.

Learning Doors

Feature three main program cards:

SALIENT

For children and teens learning to notice what matters.

ONUS

Story-led learning for families, homes, classrooms, and communities.

AT THE SAME TABLE

Gatherings for food, art, and conversations that begin when we sit down.

Core Sections

About

Use a landing page with links to:

- Manifesto: the concise copy above
- Method: art, education, and wellness remixed at the same table
- People: founder biography, studio portrait, relevant experience, visiting artists, educators, collaborators, and partners

Primary CTA: WORK WITH REMIXED TABLE

Archives

Archives should provide visual proof of the brand without feeling like a corporate portfolio. Treat all work as an evolving record of people, materials, questions, places, and shared experiences.

- Inner Landscapes: reflective, guided, art-centered evenings for adults and older teens. Do not use clinical or therapeutic claims.
- Imaginary Worlds: participatory art events where children, families, and communities build alternate places, impossible maps, hopeful futures, and shared artifacts. Include charity or community partner details when applicable.
- Collaborations: projects with schools, cafés, studios, artists, nonprofits, parent groups, community spaces, cultural organizations, and aligned brands.
- Field Notes: a living digital scrapbook of workshop fragments, participant quotes, drawings, recipes, material samples, table sketches, photographs, and observations.

Use status labels where appropriate: IN THE STUDIO, OPEN FOR BOOKING, ARCHIVED, or RETURNING SOON.

Learning

- SALIENT: art-and-inquiry experiences for children and teens. Focus on visual journals, material experiments, research, collection, drawing, writing, and the practice of noticing.
- ONUS: a story-led learning framework organized around Notice, Nourish, Understand, and Shape. Offer curriculum consulting, educator workshops, school residencies, family learning circles, homeschool intensives, and resources.
- Storytelling: story circles, visual storytelling, oral storytelling, children's-book gatherings, memory-based workshops, and story-led learning experiences.
- At the Same Table: gatherings for making, eating, drawing, conversation, and meeting beyond the usual script. Make it clear that guests can come alone, with a child, with a collaborator, or with a question.
- Field Guides: free and paid digital resources, including "7 Ways to Notice More," Family Sketchbook Starter, Questions for the Table, SALIENT at Home, ONUS for Educators, and Inner Landscapes Prompt Deck.

Notes

- Conversations: interviews and dialogues with artists, parents, educators, makers, wellness practitioners, and community builders.
- Observations: short essays, dispatches, workshop reflections, parenting notes, teaching stories, material studies, reading recommendations, and field notes.
- For Mateo: a password-protected private writing space for letters, memories, keepsakes, and personal reflections.

Events

Events must be the primary booking hub.

Every event page needs:

- Event name and one-sentence invitation
- Date, time, location, audience/age guidance, and USD price above the fold
- Availability status and clear RESERVE A PLACE CTA
- What participants will do, make, learn, or take home
- Materials, schedule, facilitator bio, accessibility details, food/allergy details, cancellation policy, and FAQ
- Booking CTA repeated at the bottom

Create pages for:

- Upcoming Events
- Private Tables
- School + Community Bookings

Connect

Create clear routes for:

- General hello

- Collaboration proposal
- School or homeschool inquiry
- Private-event inquiry
- Book a program
- Instagram: @remixedtable
- Email contact
- Newsletter signup

Do not specify a fixed geographic location. Describe REMIXED TABLE as a nomadic studio available for selected in-person, international, and online collaborations.

Photography and Motion

Use real documentary imagery whenever possible:

- Hands drawing, cutting, writing, arranging, kneading, and sharing
- Sketchbooks, journals, charcoal, paint, paper scraps, fruit, seed bread, juice, and tools
- Children's artwork treated as serious evidence of thinking
- Tables after events, with visible traces of making
- Cropped faces, soft flash, shadows, grain, blur, movement, and archive-like objects
- Workshop spaces, gathered materials, meals, maps, and fieldwork moments

Use large imagery, quiet captions, and generous whitespace. Captions may include labels such as FIELD NOTE, project title, place, date, or material.

Motion should remain slow, tactile, and restrained:

- Underlines draw on hover
 - Images softly fade, crop, or mask into view
 - Project cards lift subtly
 - "Field Note" labels appear on hover
 - Respect prefers-reduced-motion
 - Never use distracting animation, carousels, or aggressive visual effects
